The Episcopal Church and the Radicals.

That able and conservative journal, the Baltimore Gazette, thus speaks of the Episcopal General Convention:

The unity of the church was restored, and every effort was made to make the record perfect. The Bishop of Maryland and several others, who, during the past four years, had shown extreme bitterness towards their Southern brethren, were among the most earnest in their efforts to smooth away all difficulties; and Mr. William Welsh, who had been an earnest advocate of fire and sword, and was wont to praise God after his fashion by singing "The Star Spangled Banner" in church, confessed that he had been crazy during the war, but had now returned to his senses.

But all this is not satisfactory to the few radicals of the Convention, who do not think it a good thing to dwell in unity with their brethren. Their fanatical dispositions demand the humiliation of the Southern clergymen, and, though repeatedly rebuked, they return with their firebrands and seem determined to stir up strife in a peaceful Church. The House of Bishops, in their exercise of an undoubted right, appointed Tuesday last as "a day of thanksgiving and prayer for the return of peace and the restoration of the unity of the Church." This was all that was deemed necessary. One of the malcontents, however, offered a sort of amendment, extending the thanksgiving to the restoration of Federal authority and the abolition of slavery. This was at once tabled by a large vote; but determined not to be thwarted in this manner, a notice was published in the papers by the radicals, informing the public that there would be on "Tuesday evening, at the Church of the Epiphany, as an appropriate continuation of the services of the morning, a further thanksgiving service, for the re-establishment of the national authority over the whole country, and for the removal of that great occasion of national dissension and estrangement to which our late troubles were due." On Tuesday evening, accordingly, a large audience assembled, not to render thanks, but to talk politics. Prayers were read and a hymn was sung; after which Bishop McIlvaine made a speech.

He was followed by Mr. Horace Binney, Jr., who explained and defended the resolutions offered by him on Saturday, which were voted down; after which Dr. Vinton praised God that slavery had been crushed out by force; and Bishop Burgess, of Maine, who closed, insisted that the negroes should be recognized as being on a level with those who were once their masters. And so ended the "continuation" of the morning services.

It is very evident, from the temper exhibited by these radicals, that while the apparent difficulty which threatened the unity of the Church has been removed, a much more serious one exists, which threatens to disturb its peace. There are clergymen in the North, pretending to the title of Christians, who preach the doctrines of Beecher and the gospel of Brownlow. There are laymen who talk about loyalty and Christianity as if they were one, and who, if they had their own way, would, no doubt, dispose of rebels as Torquemada did of heretics. Such people are simply a disgrace to the religion they profess, and should at least have better taste, if not sense, than to attempt to stir up strife and discord in a church where the harmony appears so perfect.

The steamers Rhode Island and Hornet sailed on the 23d for Havana, to convey the Confederate ram Stonewall to the Washington Navy Yard.

Beaufort Property.
For the information of our refugee friends in the up-country, we extract the following from the Charleston News:

We have received from Mr. M. P. O'Connor, who has recently returned from a visit to the town of Beaufort, important information with respect to property in that locality, which will be interesting to many of our readers. After the occupation of the town by the United States forces, the town was re-surveyed and divided off into blocks—the lots being designated upon the new plat by letters. Pursuant to the Acts of Congress, approved June 7th, 1862, and February 6th, 1863, levying a tax upon lands in insurrectionary districts, the United States Tax Commissioners offered for sale, in the early part of the fall of 1863, the whole of the town, and announced at the sale that the Government would buy in the property, to be used for military purposes. This declaration by the Commissioners shut out all competition at the sale, and the most of the town was bought in by the Government. Subsequently, in 1864, and at various times since, the most of the town property was resold by the Commissioners to third parties, upon the terms: one-fourth cash, the balance upon a credit of three years. Some lots, however, were reserved by the Government for military uses, and Mr. O'Connor was told that among these were the houses and lots of Paul Hamilton, Edgar Frapp, Edward Means, John Johnston, Joseph Johnson, Robert W. Barnwell, B. B. Sams, L. R. Sams, T. R. S. Elliott, John M. Verdier, Lawrence Frapp, D. Mann, B. W. Barnwell, Osborn Barnwell, Joseph Hazel, Cockcroft and John Murray.

These lots, with others not mentioned, have been advertised in the New South to be sold by Government on the 6th of next December. Unless the sale is stopped, these, like the rest of the town property previously conveyed, will pass into the hands of third parties and speculators. The order for this sale should be at once countermanded, and those interested should lose no time in addressing a petition to the President to interdict the sale, and advising Mr. Trescott, the State Commissioner at Washington, to take measures to have it stopped. Grave and serious injustice has already been done those of our citizens from Beaufort and its vicinity in the proceedings which have been heretofore taken; and every effort should be made to call the subject to the attention of the Government, that the injuries of the past may be remedied and future evils prevented.

Every subsequent transfer of this property between third parties after it passes out of the hands of the Government, will embarrass the claimants, as well as the Government, in affording restitution. We have no doubt but a just, impartial, and magnanimous administration will do equal justice as between all citizens, and that in due time those who have been divested of their estates will be restored to the possession and full enjoyment of them.

THE FREEDMEN TO GO TO WORK.
An important circular has been issued from the Freedmen's Bureau in New Orleans, regulating the duties of the negroes towards their employers. The freedmen are given to understand that they must labor for their existence hereafter, and not expect any further concessions from the Government.

General Beauregard is to be Superintendent of the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad.

Robbery and Fire.

Miller's Patent Fire-proof Safes.

THIS class of SAFE is designed for Merchants and all kinds of business requiring positive protection from fire, with ample security from robbery, for such uses.

They combine several patents which remove many objections found in other Safes, such as dampness, running out of the filling and decay, and are fitted with powder and pick proof locks, perfectly secure and easy to use. These Safes have been before the public for the past fifteen years, and are now used by many of the first banks and merchants in the country, and have never in a single instance lost a dollar's value by fire or robbery, although frequently and severely tested. For sale at
